

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides materials and methods for predicting the in vivo toxicity of a given compound. For example, the invention comprises conducting at least three distinct assays in parallel to provide information about three distinct parameters of cytotoxicity of a chemical in a given target cell, which information is useful for predicting in vivo cytotoxicity.

0956242.060200